SEPTEMBER 13—The first of the two formal receptions given to a student during his career at Guilford was presented for the benefit of the Freshmen. Old students herded new students through an endless line of miscellaneous faculty to the refuge of the dance floor. Upperclassmen chatted intimately with teachers. Old acquaintances were renewed. The Freshmen slowly faded out of the picture, drifted back to the dorms, to be gradually assimilated into the college scene as the year passed.

OCTOBER 4—The plutocrats of the campus, those who have cars or friends, headed for Virginia and the Hampton-Sidney game. The proletariat was entertained by the social committee at a dance held on the tennis courts.

OCTOBER 5—Annual Y Retreat . . . participants ate, played games, and sang around a camp fire.

OCTOBER 16—Homecoming Day. Alumni returned in droves to be escorted about ye olde alma mater by student hosts. Guilford's traditional sentiments toward High Point were reiterated on the barn. Trees bore anti-Wofford expressions. Founders Hall won the Monogram Club prize for the best decorated dorm. Played and lost to Wofford.

OCTOBER 25—Up at 5:00 a.m. to welcome the returning football team, built a bonfire and cheered.

OCTOBER 26—Unsuspecting Freshmen and energetic upperclassmen communed with nature on the annual four-mile trudge known as the Battleground Hike. A brief halt was called at the museum and Park in the interests of a well-rounded education. Destination achieved, a rousing game of softball was played to completely undermine enthusiasts. Supper was served. The day was climaxed by the return trip which the mass took in vehicles.

OCTOBER 31—The Hallowe'en Dance claimed the gym for the night—dancing, fortune-telling, apple-bobbing, and refreshments were scattered throughout the evening. Andy waxed photographic to furnish one of the winning snapshots for the annual Quaker contest.

NOVEMBER 1—Bundles from Heaven and buckets of blue paint heralded the annual Guilford-High Point clash on the Guilford campus. Intimidating pro-Guilford propaganda in red did the same for High Point. The game was played that memorable evening—Guilford whipped High Point. A few scattered fights and several embryonic riots climaxed the night for the defeated, while Guilford proceeded in a body to Tucker's to celebrate.

NOVEMBER 15—Guilford's first tea dance was held in the gym for the Catawba players who unfortunately were unable to attend. But everything carried on beautifully without them.

NOVEMBER 20—Catawba game. . . . We hopefully burned an Indian in effigy . . . the God of War didn't smile on our enterprise . . . we lost. Students hit an all time high for cheering and morale support to the team though.

NOVEMBER 27—We played and beat Elon in the traditional Thanksgiving game, to complete the success of our football season. Jack White and Hank Harvey, dressed in the Quaker garb of our New Garden predecessors, served as mascots. Hank's silent prayer at appropriate moments probably won the day.

NOVEMBER 29—The Vets sponsored the Thanksgiving Dance in the gym.

DECEMBER 5—Jerry Allen presented student-directed, student-produced, and student-acted "You Can't Take It With You"—a landmark in student-appreciated dramatic productions on campus.

DECEMBER 14—The Christmas season opened with the choir's rendition of the Messiah. Sunday afternoon.

DECEMBER 15—Dr. Weis feted choir members at his home.

DECEMBER 16—The Monogram Club's Christmas Dance ended the season in fine order the night before vacation. Jean Presnell, lovely Hobbs junior, was presented to the school as Queen of the Dance.

JANUARY—Was reserved in toto for final exams and basketball games.

Chronicle

FEBRUARY 8—The first in the Open House series; Archdale showed all.

FEBRUARY 13—The Valentine's Day Formal was presented by the Social Committee. Betty Nunn just managed to pull through.

FEBRUARY 15—Founders rooms got their annual cleaning.

FEBRUARY 22—Guilford young ladies got a glimpse of how the other half lives at Cox's Open House.

FEBRUARY 29—Day of days! The sacred precincts of Mary Hobbs were invaded—by men!

MARCH 6-7—College students and visiting North Carolina Young Friends got together for discussion and inspiration; outside speakers appeared in conferences, chapels, Meeting; beds were loaned out; forums were held; a good time was had by all. Then the Friends departed until next year.

MARCH 15—A piano recital was given by Mr. Feagins and Mrs. Woodhouse.

MARCH 31—Continuing a tradition. . . . Woman's Student Government met in the auditorium to inaugurate their newly elected officers in a candle-light service.

APRIL 3—Something new on Guilford's venerable campus—moving pictures, real ones! On this evening Keys of the Kingdom was offered, free, to all students in Memorial Hall.

APRIL 10—Laura, second in the series, was observed by a large group.

APRIL 15—Crack of Doom—Judgment Day—Idea of March gone one better—senior theses due.

APRIL 10—Students attended the third free show, Cluny Brown, still wondering if this can be Guilford?

APRIL 20—Choir banquet was given.

APRIL 23—The Scholarship Society entertained campus honor roll students. Highlight of the evening was the balloon-busting relay, and sight of the evening was Dr. Ljung, Dr. Purdom, and Miss Gilbert bouncing up and down on balloons that just wouldn't break.

APRIL 24—The Junior class broke recent precedent and presented the Class of '48 with an off-campus Junior-Senior Banquet at the Bliss Restaurant. Ott spoke, White drawled, McCracken waxed poetic, and Ducker prophesied.

APRIL 28—Tragedy struck our sheltered community! Like a bolt of lightning it came this bright sunny morning and by nightfall the Kiss-Me-Quick was no more.

MAY 1—May Day dawned bright and early and with it the male population of Guilford in all their glory. Byatt returned to do Mrs. Milner justice; the rest of the faculty was taken for the usual ride. Question of the day: Who put the cow in Founders Hall? Girls May Day was a success. June and her attendants looked lovely. The May Court was honored by the W.A.A. at a formal in the evening.

MAY 8—Monogram Club initiated its new members at the 2nd annual Klub Kampus Kuties. Moon was singing bartender supreme, but Roscoe Cox almost stole the show.

MAY 15—The Dramatic Council came forth with Mr. and Mrs. North for its spring production, directed by Eleanor Corneilson and Charlotte Flanders.

MAY 29—For those members of the senior class who had stayed with Guilford faithfully for four years, reward came in the way of the second formal reception of their college days. This evening Dr. and Mrs. Milner held a reception for seniors and their parents.

MAY 30—The end draweth near. Baccalaureate service was held this Sabbath morn.

MAY 31—Graduation. For the seniors, fnis, and farewell.

Seniors

What is the end of study? Let me know.

Love's Labor Lost, i, 1

Our seniors are amused by those innumerable posters which show a clear-eyed, sturdy student standing on the summit of a mountain, looking into eternity. On the bottom of the poster appear the words, "College Senior." The picture here at Guilford is a bit different. Piedmont hills replace the mountains, and a slightly quizzical senior replaces the embryo Einstein of the poster. Seniors have been hailed and farewelled ever since Eve took a degree in husbandry; at Guilford we simply say, "Till we meet again." Some of the seniors have gone through uninterrupted; others left to settle a misunderstanding. Some graduate with honors; others with thanks. Some are going on with their studies; others will begin. Some will be wealthy; others will never be immortalized on donation lists. But none will ever regret coming to Guilford. A college is more than its reputation, its endowment, its roll call of distinguished graduates. A college is a state of mind, a feeling known to a few; a feeling impossible to describe, but easy to recall. The outside world beckons; we start; we hesitate—we wonder. . . . Our textbooks become dusty; they have little use now. Is there a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow? Does Shylock outdo Santa Claus? Are mortgages still foreclosed and fortunes made? Can love go on in spite of Nietzsche? Is there a Paradise? What's it like? Somewhere an Emeritus Supreme is smiling as he sees his humble students look to him for answers. The answers aren't there; they're yet to be written.

The class of 1950 looks back on the first years of its existence and realizes that during those two years it has witnessed many changes. Our class saw the building up of the community and remembers the September evenings we mobbed Clyde's for those "double horns of brown." Then the Friendly Corner came into being, and soon bridge games became the order of the day. We remember that we were the first freshman class to watch a rejuvenated football team, and the first to see the basketball team defeat High Point twice in three days. We organized ourselves under the leadership of Wally Maultsby, Jase Ralls, Jane Rhodes, and Walt Moon. This year we knew each other better, and had formed definite friendships. We were proud of our class and the people in it. From north or south, small town or large city, the sophomores made good. We watched Walt, Tuttle, Pay, and Wally on the gridiron, and Dick, Jase, and Jimmy on the court. We acclaimed Charlotte, Bill, Redsie, and Pinkie in "You Can't Take It With You." In every organization on campus sophomores took a lead. Now we have reached the halfway mark of our college career. It's two down and two to go.

How green you are and fresh in this old world.

King John, iii, 4

Ours is a cosmopolitan class; representatives from Arabia, Mexico, Hawaii, and foreigners from High Point, Winston-Salem and numerous Yankee towns make up the distinctive class of '51. In September we arrived eager and self-confident. Lectures on "How to succeed at college," "How to use the library," "A short history of Guilford College" and many weary hours of placement tests failed to lessen our enthusiasm. Even psych 21 and natural science labs and classes didn't lower our morale. First semester finals did have a quieting effect and after January we buckled down to serious study, just as the sophomores had predicted we would. Freshman boys were indispensable in the varsity sports. Al Johns, Rick Ferrell, Jimmy Mann, Larry Dempsey, and Jack Elkins were some of the freshmen who made Guilford a dangerous opponent in North State Basketball. They supported the baseball and football teams just as faithfully. We didn't go all out for athletics either. At the end of the first semester, the freshmen had more names on the honor roll than any other class. Other freshmen were active in other fields. Jimmy Finch guided us through our first year. Andy Anderson was voted the Freshmen's choice for queen of the Christmas dance. Little Stabler did the art work for the QUAKER. The Valear twins and Doris Cooper passed their first year as Quaker cheerleaders with flying colors.

So maybe we're green and young. We're proud of ourselves and we will continue to be so and we hope in the future Guilford will be proud of the class of 1951.

Student Affairs Board

Under Roy Cuneo's able leadership, the 1948 Student Affairs Board took over. This body is comprised of all the heads of all the organizations on campus. Its duties are to iron out any difficulties which may arise, distribute fairly the money allotted to student organizations, and to take charge of elections.

This body put through the raise in student activities fees, increasing the sum five dollars per person. Dr. Milner gave this his recommendation, and then it was passed by the student body. The increase in the amount of money to be distributed among the campus activities made it even more difficult for the budget committee. After long and arduous work behind closed doors, they emerged slightly haggard, but with a tentative budget clutched in their hands. Because of one or two misconceptions among the student body, this was not passed at its first presentation, but after a minor alteration, the students gave it their approval.

Under Dr. Purdom's Democratic leadership the spring elections got under way. Nominations went through and petitions followed. All of a sudden the campus was swamped by soap box orators, signs appeared, and banners waved from second story windows. Candidates were duly elected and the board members came through tired, a little shaky, but none the worse for a vigorous campaign.

The final meeting after spring holidays was called, old business finished up, and amid cheers and smiles, the new members were installed.

Marshals

Four men and four women students from the Junior class were selected by the faculty to serve as Marshals and usher at the important college functions. This group was initiated into its duties last spring at graduation, and returned this fall as an organized group eager to take over its responsibilities. Dody Haworth, Bettina Huston, Inge Longerich, and Julie White represented the girls; the boys chosen were Otis Beeson, David Hadley, Charlie Carroll, and Carl Erickson, chief marshal. Later in the year Bunk Leonard was named to fill the vacancy left by the departure of Beeson. Any material qualifications for the position of a Marshal were purely coincidental. Charlie Carroll, the proud possessor of a tux, was in the best shape, but lack of familiarity with such outfits occasionally hampered the others. However, in spite of frantic last-minute borrowings, unruly bow ties which tended to resemble propellers, and a brown suit which turned up on the night of the Dramatic Council performance, the duties were carried out with more or less dignity and efficiency. Dr. Campbell, with her memories of incidents from others years, helped to further this end.

The Play's the thing . . .

Hamlet II, ii

Fast becoming one of "the" active clubs of Guilford, the Dramatic Council has completed its second successful year. Rising from just another campus organization to a group of interested (and not just passively so) students, the Dramatic Council added new laurels to those it captured last year. Under the careful planning of Beth Frederick and the extremely able directorship of Jerry "Cecil B." Allen, the Council presented "You Can't Take It With You" as its first play of the season. The presentation, following the general theme of comedy which captured the audience of "Arsenic and Old Lace" last year, was well received by the student and guest audience. It starred veterans Jerry Duckor, Charlotte Flanders, Bill Kerr, Jack White, and Marjorie Benbow, and introduced stars Bob Carey, Joe Armbrust and Ina Rollins.

Young Friends

About twenty per cent of the college have listed themselves as Quakers on the official records in the office. The Young Friends organization is not fortunate enough to enjoy that large a proportion of the student body as active members. Still they form a core of sincere interested students who strive to develop their own spiritual interests and keep alive the dominant Quaker tradition on campus. Early in the year, according to Friends' procedure, a nominating committee submitted to the group a list of tentative leaders for their approval: Nancy Reece, presiding clerk; Harvey Marshall, recording clerk; Calvin Hinshaw, treasurer; Inge Long-erich, Midyear Conference Steering Committee chairman; and Eldora Haworth, chairman of the social committee. With the recognition of the Friends, the organization proceeded under the guidance of these few. They met weekly for discussion, guidance, and refreshments. They appointed committees; they collected clothing for the Service Committee; they planned a chapel program; they imported speakers; they helped with Charter Day; they presented a successful midyear conference; all in all they had a very successful year.

Student Christian Association

The Student Christian Association continued its career of spiritual uplifting with many perennial features plus some effective innovations. After an intensive membership drive and internal reorganization, it proceeded with the sponsorship of talks by leaders of diverse faiths and weekly lectures. The return from Europe of Brad Snipes to resume the presidency added new strength to the group.

International Relations Club

This year a mature organization, the I. R. C., co-operating with the World Federalists, kept alive an ideal of world peace. Its activities, ranging on the campus level from small hut discussions to the appearance of a real European Baron (remember his debate with Adli?), were extended beyond Guilford to include Saturday morning radio broadcasts.

Guilford College will buy their way into the national Phi Beta Kappa society. Or so the rumor goes. Starting last fall with a capable administrative duet, Jennie Cannon, president, and Ginny Jordan, vice president, but no members, the society was augmented by four at the semester. The group existed for two semesters without sponsoring or planning anything sensational. Their's it was, rather, to spread a subtle aura of inspiration amongst their more worldly-minded associates, and to set an example.

Fine Arts Club

The Fine Arts Club, being of a compulsory nature, is one of the more active clubs on campus. It is dominated by the college music majors; and music, naturally, is the fine art with which the group is most preoccupied. Every month a full membership meeting is held at which individual members perform either on the piano or vocally to help develop poise and skill. The organization is guided by Dick Spencer, president; Marie Orvis, vice president; and Ethel Edwards, secretary-treasurer. The Fine Arts Club carries on as a cultural light on campus.

A Cappella Choir

After you enter the gateway of Guilford College and start up the drive, the first building on your right houses Guilford's nightingales, thrushes, larks, and all warblers in general. From said building any time during the hour from one to two, on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays you can hear more than seventy voices blending harmoniously, preparing to advertise Guilford College locally and nationally. This is the choir, which throughout the year sings in different churches in North Carolina, and then during spring vacation selects about forty-five of its more talented members to represent it on a ten day tour. This year took them to Chicago, where they performed superbly on Don McNeill's "Breakfast Club."

The Guilfordian

This is the story of the 1947-48 Guilfordian. There's not much to tell. Like every organization on campus it had its ups and downs; or perhaps we should say its downs and ups. There were columns and columnists, pictures and comments . . . times when students asked for the paper which hadn't even gone to the printer . . . editions that were unscheduled but met the printer's schedule; still the paper presented the news in a direct and simple manner, and pretty well satisfied the desires of the students. The "toddling infant" mentioned in last year's QUAKER was successfully maneuvered by editor Kerr along the same general line of style and pattern set by "Doc" Brodeur in the '46-'47 issue.

Staff photographers, Jim Patton and Don Troxler, managed to keep the pages well sprinkled with pictures. Schoelkopf kept the library haunts informed of the achievements of the athletic half. Contributing editor Bill McCracken's columns on the show and plays presented on the campus awoken many "we always go to the theater because they go" spectators as to the actual value of the show presented. Frisco Bray presented avid readers with the seamier side of campus life, and where he couldn't find trouble, he stirred it up. Allen's column, "Ad Libbing with Allen" dropped an occasional bombshell. Kerr carried the brunt, met the deadlines; lost a little weight and more sleep—but the Guilfordian came out.

And what obscured in this fair volume lies, find hidden in the margin,

The Quaker

With a mixture of misgivings, humility, pride—all perhaps unwarranted—we give you your yearbook.

With an increased respect for the long life of editors and editorial staffs, and the insurmountable fortitude they have exhibited, we turn this labor of our months over to you.

It hasn't always been easy, and you, who waited with such utter confidence for the annual production, little realize what horrible doubts haunted the little office hidden in back of the Mem. Hall auditorium. There was the able, but constantly diminishing staff bequeathed by our predecessors . . . midnight sessions wrestling with deadlines . . . constant struggles with temperamental genius . . . a good, but slow in forthcoming sports section . . . last-minute engraving shipments . . . uncoöperative teachers who continued to give homework . . . reckless slicing to fit horizontal pictures into vertical territory . . . imaginative write-ups of seniors nobody knew . . . inconvenient schedules of corresponding exam weeks and final deadlines when the QUAKER won out . . . the inimitable sense of relief and satisfaction when it was all finally mailed . . . the knowledge that it really was worth it.

For better or for worse, this is our yearbook—and yours. With thanks to all those who helped us, and best wishes to you, the 1948 staff presents
THE QUAKER.

Standing: Betty Nunn, Chairman; Dave Register; Frisco Bray; Charlie Robertson; Jack White; Charlotte Flanders. Sitting: Deanie Belton; Wes Inman; Jean Presnell.

Social Committee

The social committee, a group of eleven members, is the hardest working and most griped at organization on campus. The perfumed belles and gallant gentlemen who attended the free dances sponsored by this group have little awareness of the hours spent with thumbtacks, crepe paper and imagination trying to transform the all-around gym into a make-believe ballroom. The small group that gathers each night after supper in the basement amid the clutter of broken desks little realizes the struggle the committee had at the beginning of the year to find a juke box that worked, and Hoyt's struggle since then to keep it working and to supply it's never ending thirst for new records. At the start of the year they gave the annual reception to welcome the new Freshmen, which, in spite of the long receiving line, provided the first formal dance of the year. In the fall they planned a football Tea Dance. The game was rained out, but the dance, a new type of social for Guilford, went on as scheduled. The Hallowe'en dance, where even the Devil himself showed up, was highlighted by corn stalks and Jack's famed yellow and blue balloons. February saw the traditional Valentine dance amid paper hearts of red and white. In addition to these affairs, the committee put on several playnites in which badminton, cards, dancing and refreshments were enjoyed with equal abandon. Also during the year they presented several movies, a square dance, and the long planned for, and often put off, hayride.

Veterans Association

Formed by men who have seen almost every conceivable kind of action in many of the countries of the world, who lived old when they were young, and who returned to take up their duties as Americans with a deeper understanding of what America and Americanism is, the Veterans Club was initiated on campus in 1945. United on this common ground, these "Willies" and "Joes," these "Kilroys" and "Sad Sacks," these few remaining from the many around them who were lost with others in the last great war, have but one goal. The ideal was taught them in schools before they could realize what it fully meant, but it was etched in their minds when the most priceless thing was hope and the cheapest thing was blood. That goal is to make the principles for which their forefathers and their buddies died, Democracy, live forever in the hearts and actions of all men.

Enjoying a large and active membership of over half a hundred varsity letter men, the "G" Club functioned throughout the year as one of the outstanding organizations on campus. From proceeds gathered by selling programs and refreshments at the interscholastic games, the club was able to present to each new member a red "G" sweater and to each senior a white one. Gold footballs were given to John Hanzel and Billy Powell for being selected the best tackler and blocker on the football team. Besides many club functions, two big social affairs were given during the year, the bright spot of the social calendar being the Christmas Ball, which was highlighted by the crowning of Miss Jean Presnell as Queen. Officers for the year were Herb Schoellkopf, President; Tommy Riddle, Vice President; Jase Ralls, Secretary; and Lody Glenn, Treasurer.

Although emerging with a win record of less than .500, it was the nature of the victories that made the football season a highly successful one. The cold figures show only a final tally of four wins and six losses; what it doesn't show is that two of the wins were over High Point and Elon, our most bitter and traditional rivals. Opening practice in September with a wealth of good material on hand, Coach "Doc" Newton had reason to be optimistic in his predictions. Returning from the strong team of '46 was an impressive array of beef combined with savvy. Riddle, Glenn, Feeney, Hanzel, and Sherrill led this parade of veteran linemen and got plenty of support from lettermen Nantz, Turner, O'Briant, Roberts, and Haworth. Newcomers who later proved valuable to the line were Cox and Leonard. Hard playing little Harpo Withers completed the line at the center slot. The backfield glittered equally well, if not more so. Previously tested wearers of Crimson and Gray were Maultsby, Winner, Gordon, Powell, McCormick, Jones, Moon, and Kerr. Freshmen speedsters in the form of Feeney, Teague, and Breedon, coupled together with John Schopp, who had seen action with the Quakers last year, formed a hot rock "pony" backfield which threw many a scare into the opposition. Opening against a strong Appalachian State team, the Quakers managed to score twice but still trailed 23-13 at the gun. Playing in Virginia the next three games they turned in an impressive 22-0 win over Emory and Henry, took a 6-0 decision from Hampdon-Sydney, then dropped a close one to Randolph-Macon by one touchdown. After two more defeats, one by Wofford and the other by Erskin, the local boys came to life to trounce High Point 27-7. After scoring twice on previously unscored-on Catawba before losing the game, and bowing to Lenoir Rhyne, the Guilford gridgers wound up the season with a win over Elon Thanksgiving.

The Guilford College cagers, bolstered by the addition of several freshmen, were able to prove formidable opponents for all foes encountered this past season including the Carolina Tarheels. Although the net men were only able to achieve eighth place in the final standings of the North State Conference, this was no true indication of their actual strength. They proved this by eliminating the third place club, E.C.T.C., from the North State Tournament held at Elkin, N. C., by a sound margin of fifteen points, 53-38. The following evening the Quakers themselves bowed out of the tournament by losing to High Point, 55-49, after a hard fought contest. This year's aggregation was formed from the bulk of the previous season's squad, in addition to first year men who saw a great deal of action, such as Rick Ferrell, Jack Elkins, and Al Johns; Jace Ralls, Jack Chatham, Dick Hall, Brooks Hansard, and Jimmy Mann returned to assume heavy duty roles. The losing of many heart breakers by a mere margin of one or two points was the cause of the feeble showing in the win column. Few will ever forget Red Richardson's long shot in the last second of the game to enable Catawba to top the Quakers after the latter had been leading throughout the entire struggle. At times the Crimson and Gray turned in excellent games such as in their wins over High Point, Elon, and Lenoir-Rhyne.

G

BASEBALL

Because of the small loss from last season's team, the Quakers were able to put on the diamond one of the most threatening nines in the conference. What few openings existed were ably filled by a host of first year men reporting to drills. To prepare themselves for a heavy schedule of over twenty games, the squad started drills the first week in March, under the tutorage of head coach Doc Newton. Last year's outfield consisting of Ralls, Leonard, and Edwards was still intact, as was the infield, composed of Chatham, Hall, Short, and Stamey. Davis resumed his catching duties, aided by newcomer Ferrell. The pitching staff was also well padded with veteran hurlers such as Winner, Withers, Phillips, Powell, Smith, Wolf, and Dempsey. During the Spring holidays the diamond men made their annual tour of the Carolinas, engaging Newberry, Erskine, and North State Conference foes. The appearance of new uniforms, which the team needed so badly, highlighted the 1948 baseball season.

Resuming tennis for the second year after the war, Guilford produced a sterling group of players on the courts who established an enviable record for themselves and the school. Under the tutorage of M. Dave Parsons, the boys developed rapidly after their first set back at the hands of a great Kalamazoo team.

Joe Coleman, ace netter from Greensboro, managed to hold on to the top rung of the ladder throughout the year. Close behind him for top position were Lyttleton Scott, Bill Cavan, and Bill Stamey, all experienced players for the Quakers. Rounding out the team were veterans Bill Reade and Jerry Watson with newcomers Larry Fine and Ollie Bissett.

TENNIS

INTRAMURALS

The highly organized and varied intramural program carried out this year truly was evidence of the interest of students and administration in sports activities for all. As directed and conducted by Coach Eddie Teague, the program included participation by over a hundred and fifty men from thirteen sections and day hop groups. Medals were presented to each member of a winning team, as well as to the all-campus team selected for each sport. In tag football and volleyball Yankee Stadium was the victor. Making up the teams from the section were Bray, Schoellkopf, Arzonico, Christensen, Poggioli, Amatruda, Stamey, Coward, Coble, Hayworth, Connor, and Short. Basketball champ was Center Section of Farlow, Redman, Hayworth, Covington, Lambert, Phillips, Presnell, Roeske, and Dunkle. Other intramural activities included a red hot softball tournament, ably defended by the Married Vets, champs of '47. Points were given for each place in the tournaments, an award going to the leading section.

The officers of the Men's A. A. hold some of the most responsible positions that can be held by any students on campus. It is their duty to dispose of the large amount of money allocated them for the purpose of sustaining all the men's sports activities during the year. This obligation has been successfully handled during the past year by President Bunk Leonard and Secretary-Treasurer Jack Chatham, despite the rising cost for equipment and accessories. This body ably financed the varsity sports, the cheerleaders, intramurals, and letter awards.

MEN'S A.A.

PHYS. ED.

With the addition of Physical Education as an accredited major for a Bachelor of Arts degree at Guilford, it was necessary to include a whole new course of subjects in the field. Ably leading in the direction and organization of the courses, Coach Eddie Teague, with the help of Coach Paul Lentz, developed a well rounded curriculum which meets the state requirements for a phys. ed. major. In addition to education, health and administration courses, several skill subjects were offered. These included coaching in wrestling, boxing, gymnastics, track and field, as well as the three big sports. Several outside speakers and coaches have been imported to speak to classes and the phys. ed. seminar. To add specialization to the talks, each of the visitors was an expert in his own field. Some of the speakers were: Dr. Cromwell from the U. of Carolina, Mr. Hap Perry, State Athletic Commissioner, Mr. Charles Spencer, State Supervisor of Phys. Ed., Coach Virgil Yow of Hanes, and Coach Bob Jamison of Greensboro.

PEP SECTION

In keeping with the return to athletic dominance by Guilford College, the school spirit this year has been marked by a simultaneous increase. To lead the larger, enthusiastic student body in the cheers and songs at the games and pep rallies, a new, active group of cheerleaders was organized under the direction of experienced members Midge Ridge, Jitter Hauser, and Howard Coble. The new-comers were Doris Cooper, the Valaer twins, Al Amatruda, Jase and Lefty Ralls, and Herb Schoellkopf. Aiding in the stimulation of the spirit was a newly organized pep band made up mostly of former players of the Greensboro High Band. With some assistance from Dr. Weis, they mastered several numbers and their playing was enthusiastic.

WOMEN'S SPORTS

Hockey enthusiasts started practice last fall with plenty of energy and spirit under the expert coaching of Miss Hutchinson and able management of Charlotte Flanders. As the first of the year's extra-curricular activities sponsored by the WAA, hockey drew enough supporters for two intramural teams. Dividing up by classes, a combined Freshman-Sophomore team battled against a similarly united Junior-Senior team. For a while it looked like an even fight, but finally the Juniors and Seniors drove to victory, winning the tournament five games to three. In the way of inter-collegiate hockey, the Guilford girls defeated the W. C. "stick" women on our own premises for the first time in this school's memory, with the overwhelming score of 4-2. Also participating in the playday at W. C. with four other colleges, Guilford came in in third place and contributed two out of the seven players selected for the "All-State" hockey team. These were Inge Longerich and Marianne Victorius. With many of the players coming back next year, they can look forward to another wonderful hockey season.

With cold weather driving the girls to warmer retreats, the WAA got its second big project under way. Intramural basketball, managed by Esther Lowe, was supported by more than a third of the girls in school. Again splitting up into teams according to classes, five captains started steering their teams through all the rough competition a round-robin tournament can present. It soon became evident that the real fight for championship would be between Jean Presnell's Juniors and Kitty Tysor's Freshmen. In the two final games the Freshmen had bad luck with their long shots, and the laurels went to the Juniors. Guilford girls of all teams participated in play-days held at Lenoir-Rhyne, Salem, and Chapel Hill. Unfortunately they didn't come out too near the top in any of them, but they kept faith that the situation would improve next year. Spring vacation saw the end of a week of volleyball and badminton tournaments. From April until the end of the year, the WAA kept very busy sponsoring tennis, softball, and a mixed badminton tournament, as well as preparing the annual May Day program.

Epilogue

Put me down tenderly; be careful. You're liable to upset the memories that are scrawled in words, pictured in photographs; memories of a few, memories of many. Place me on a shelf, and let the dust collect. If they could rise off the printed page, and become real in your thinking, then the dust would blow away; you'd see me; you'd see them once more. You might blink, stammer, swear, swoon, or wistfully smile; but you'd look again. For here is part of you. A part every bit as real as the uncertainty you face. The faculty members, pictures of your dormitories—Nostalgia take heed. This is the year 1913, year of years, year of birth, year of death. Finite particle of infinite time. To speak of time as a particle is to seemingly extract something concrete from an abstract term. But to speak of time as the duration of things passed, is to stay on a level which means something to each and every person and event imprinted here. To the athlete—descriptions of gridiron clashes, hook-shots, triples, blisters, locker room laughs, Olympian dreams aborted by uncoordinated feet. To the scholar and library haunts . . . to the average student and soda shop rendezvous . . . to the professors and their reluctant herd . . . to the few who did too much, to the few whose accomplishments are unknown. To the meanings between the lines, and to their interpreters. To what has happened, and to what will happen to you. Where you go, how you go, is your concern; but take me with you.

Will we...

...keep our place in the world?

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA—first among nations in national income! First in production of wheat, corn, cotton, petroleum, coal, and iron! First in communications, in motor vehicles per capita—first in many essentials to good living and prosperity.

And directly related to that position of leadership is our standard of education—for it has been shown that a country's wealth and welfare rise along with its educational standards. And countries rich in natural resources can be poor and backward without the benefits of education.

Yes, the United States is a leader in the field of education too—but for how long? Appalling conditions prevail today in many of our schools. Many of our most brilliant teachers are working against odds—crowded classrooms, shortages of equipment and textbooks, long hours. . . . Thousands have left the profession for other work.

You, and every United States citizen, will suffer from this situation, because it cannot help affecting our national prosperity before long.

WHAT TO DO?

Today—make it your business to take these two steps: 1. Check up on educational conditions in your local schools; 2. Back up and work with organizations seeking to improve teachers' working and living conditions. For only by keeping our educational standards high can we hold our place in the world—and assure a prosperous future for our children.
